Emerald Ash Borer

Small (~ 1/2” long)

Metallic green narrow body

Seen May - August

May be confused with six-spotted tiger beetle

EAB attacks and kills all species of ash (Fraxinus spp).
So far, EAB has killed over 50 million ash trees.

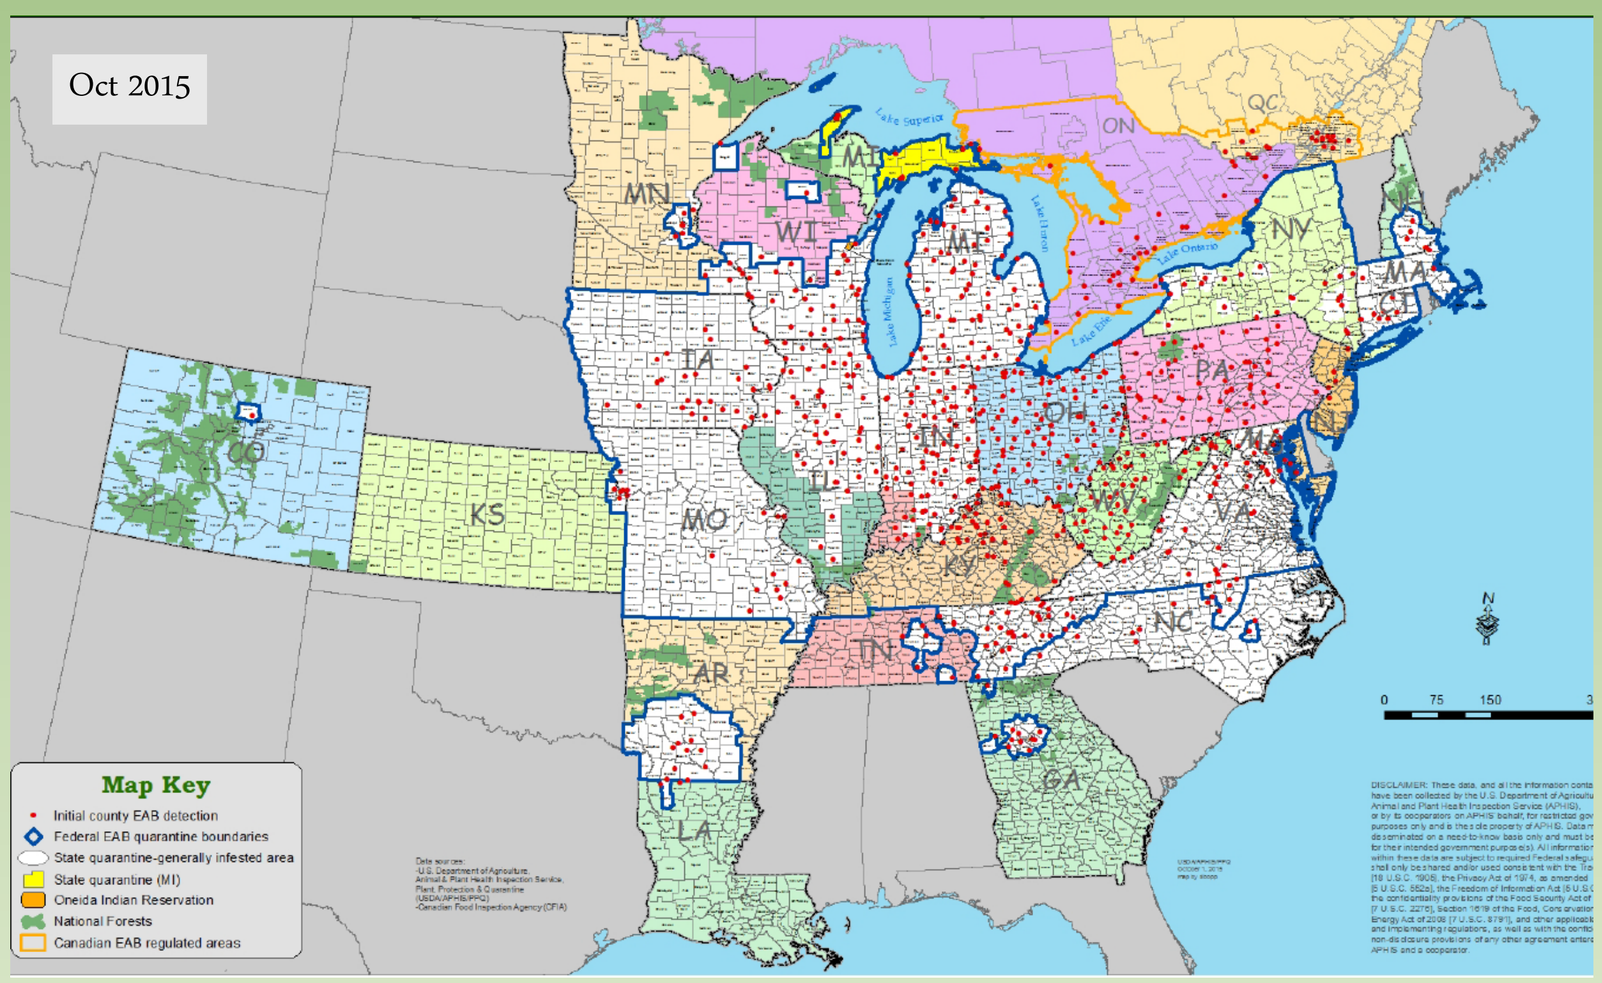
Where is EAB Found?

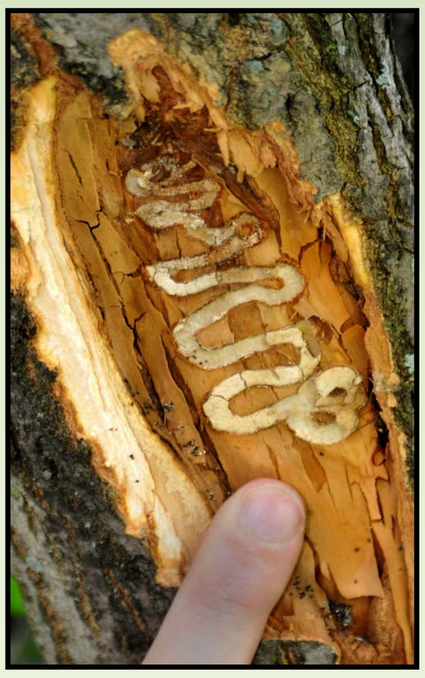
25 states;

2 Canadian provinces

Hasn’t been found in Maine



Look For:



serpentine galleries under bark

bark splitting

woodpecker activity

D-shaped exit holes

crown decline

epicormic growth

Report

If you think you’ve seen the emerald ash borer, or the above signs on ash trees, please report your findings to:

bugwatchme.agr@maine.gov or call (207) 287-2431

www.maine.gov/eab

Maine Department of Agriculture, Conservation and Forestry
Animal and Plant Health