COMPARISON OF ARTICULATION, ENHANCED ARTICULATION AND PROGRAM OF STUDY

	ARTICULATION	ENHANCED ARTICULATION	PROGRAM OF STUDY
QUICK DEFINITION	A planned process linking secondary CTE programs to postsecondary CTE programs. These agreements allow student to earn dual credits (both secondary and post secondary credit) or escrow credits, which are given to matriculated students following successful completion of a college's identified number of credit hours.	Enhanced articulation is an articulation that is a systematically planned process linking a secondary career and technical education school program to a postsecondary career and technical education system program.	A program of study is a planned sequence of courses that integrates high quality core academic knowledge with technical and occupational skills and knowledge to provide secondary CTE students with a pathway to postsecondary CTE education and career goals. Maine's model of CTE organize programs of study within 15 broad career cluster programs designed to provide students with multiple career pathways leading to careers and postsecondary education.
