The Alliance for Climate Education

The Alliance for Climate Education offers 50 minute to one hour assembly presentations. The presentations are free to the high schools that host them. Although the Northeast operations are based out of Boston, they would be happy to make the trip north to visit some Maine High Schools.

The assembly presentations (YouTube trailer) are designed for larger audiences but they also have a classroom presentation that is a good follow up with smaller groups. Following the presentations they have a number of resources that are available to students to help those who are interested begin to take action – like small grants, scholarships, and connections with other regional organizations.

Please contact if you are interested in the possibility of arranging for a presentation at your school.
