Register Now for a Free Fall Counselor Workshop

Dear Colleagues,

Welcome to this year's series of Fall Counselor Workshops. We believe that school counselors are among our most important advisers, and we've heard your call for more information regarding financial aid. Therefore, we will be offering a free afternoon session on financial aid for school counselors at selected locations throughout New England (indicated by a † after the site). Please check the appropriate box on the registration form if you'll be attending this afternoon session.

This two-hour professional development opportunity is intended to provide participants with a better understanding of the school counselor's role in the financial aid application and eligibility processes. The afternoon session will identify tools that school counselors can use in helping students and families move through the financial aid process.

At the Fall Counselor Workshops, we'll provide annual updates to College Board programs and services, as well as share best practices for school counselors. Most important, these workshops provide us with another opportunity to speak with you and to learn about the critical and complex work that you perform in your school.

We look forward to seeing you this fall.

Sincerely,

The Staff of the New England Regional Office
