

August 17, 2023

Dear [REDACTED]:

We are contacting you because as of August 11, 2023, we learned that the ransomware incident that occurred on July 25th at 7:00 am EST, may have involved some of your personal information. We are continuing to investigate in partnership with an external forensics team, but it is now our understanding that the information breached could have potentially contained Social Security Numbers, Licenses, Passports, and Benefit Enrollment Information.

We are in the process of notifying the Federal Bureau of Investigation and required state agencies in the investigation of this matter. We are notifying you so you can take action along with our efforts to minimize or eliminate potential harm. Because this is a serious incident, we strongly encourage you to take measures now to help prevent and detect any misuse of your information.

As a first preventive step, we recommend you closely monitor your financial accounts and, if you see any unauthorized activity, promptly contact your financial institution. You also may want to contact the three U.S. credit reporting agencies (Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion) to obtain a free credit report from each by calling 1-877-322-8228 or by logging onto www.annualcreditreport.com.

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) also recommends that you place a free fraud alert on your credit file. A fraud alert tells creditors to contact you before they open any new accounts or change your existing accounts. Contact any one of the three major credit bureaus (numbers included below). As soon as one credit bureau confirms your fraud alert, the others are notified to place fraud alerts. The initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for one year. You can renew it after one year. Even if you do not find any suspicious activity on your initial credit reports, the FTC recommends that you check your credit reports periodically. A victim's personal information is sometimes held for use or shared among a group of thieves at different times. Checking your credit reports periodically can help you spot problems and address them quickly.

You may also place a credit freeze restricting creditors from your credit report, this will keep them from approving any new credit account in your name whether it is fraudulent or legitimate. To let lenders and other companies access your credit files again to create new accounts, you will need to lift your credit freeze permanently or temporarily. To do this, you will need to contact each of the three major credit reporting agencies:

Equifax: (888) 298-0045 or <https://www.equifax.com/personal/help/place-lift-remove-security-freeze/>

Experian: (888) 397-3742 or <https://www.experian.com/blogs/ask-experian/how-to-add-a-security-freeze-to-your-credit-file/>

Transunion: (800) 916-8800 or <https://www.transunion.com/credit-freeze/credit-freeze-faq#adding-freeze-0>
