Re: Important Notice Regarding Possible Disclosure of Private Information

Dear Mr./Mrs.:

I am writing to inform you about a recent IT incident that may affect the security of your personal information. Certified Title Corporation is a licensed title agent that used a company called Cloudstar as its cloud hosting services provider. Cloudstar had an IT incident. At present, there is no evidence that any of the personal information on Cloudstar's system was misused in any way. However, in an abundance of caution, we want to notify you of the IT incident and offer you the resources discussed below. We take this incident seriously, and as such, are providing you with information and access to resources so that should you feel it is appropriate to do so, you can protect your personal information.

What Happened? On July 16, Cloudstar, one of the largest providers of IT security solutions and cloud hosting services to the U.S. title insurance industry, experienced a malicious ransomware attack. As a result of Cloudstar's ransomware attack, hundreds of title companies, including Certified Title, were left completely locked out of their IT environments and digital information. Upon discovery, - Certified Title immediately secured its environment and launched an investigation to determine the scope and extent of Cloudstar's breach on any of Certified Title's information. Unfortunately, Cloudstar was not immediately forthcoming with this information, and there was no mechanism by which Certified Title could retrieve the information independently. Inevitably, on October 11, 2022, Cloudstar wrote a letter to Certified Title stating that some of the Cloudstar's information was exfiltrated in the breach. Certified Title demanded that Cloudstar review the exfiltrated data and notify any affected person, but Cloudstar refused. Accordingly, Certified Title requested a copy of the exfiltration data, so that Certified Title could notify any affected persons. Cloudstar did not comply with Certified Title's request until December 15, 2021. Immediately upon retrieval, Certified Title began its ingestion and review of the documents. On January 26, 2022, the investigation confirmed that Cloudstar's breach caused Personal Information to be leaked onto the dark web. The Certified Title analyzed the information provided by Cloudstar and it was determined that the leaked data contained your personal information.

What Information Was Involved? The data that was subject to unauthorized access was different in individual cases, however, in general the data may have contained names, mailing addresses, telephone numbers, date of birth, Social Security number, and, in some instances, driver's license number, and/or credit card/financial account numbers.

What Are We Doing? We take the security of sensitive information very seriously. Upon discovery of this incident, Certified Title immediately secured its systems and took all possible steps to secure personal information. Cloudstar has stated that the problem has been remediated and that their IT systems are operating securely. In addition to conducting a thorough investigation into the incident with the help of a qualified third-party specialists, we implemented additional safeguards and security measures to enhance the privacy and security of information in our systems.

We also want to make sure you have the information you need so that you can take steps to help protect yourself and your identity. We encourage you to remain vigilant and to regularly review and monitor relevant account statements and credit reports and report suspected incidents of identity theft to local law enforcement, your state's Attorney General, or the Federal Trade Commission (the "FTC"). We have included more information on these steps in this letter.

STEPS YOU CAN TAKE TO PROTECT YOUR INFORMATION

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Fraud Alert Information

Whether or not you enroll in credit monitoring, we recommend that you place a “Fraud Alert” on your credit file. Fraud Alert messages notify potential credit grantors to verify your identification before extending credit in your name in case someone is using your information without your consent. A Fraud Alert can make it more difficult for someone to get credit in your name; however, please be aware that it also may delay your ability to obtain credit. For those in the military who want to protect their credit while deployed, an Active Duty Military Fraud Alert lasts for one year and can be renewed for the length of your deployment. Call only one of the following three nationwide credit reporting companies to place your Fraud Alert: TransUnion, Equifax, or Experian. As soon as the credit reporting company confirms your Fraud Alert, they will also forward your alert request to the other two nationwide credit reporting companies so you do not need to contact each of them separately. The contact information for the three nationwide credit reporting companies is:

Equifax
PO Box 740256
Atlanta, GA 30374
www.equifax.com
1-800-525-6285

TransUnion
PO Box 2000
Chester, PA 19016
www.transunion.com/fraud
1-800-680-7289

Experian
PO Box 9554
Allen, TX 75013

Free Credit Report Information

Under federal law, you are also entitled to one free credit report once every 12 months from each of the above three major nationwide credit reporting companies. Call 1-877-322-8228 or make a request online at www.annualcreditreport.com.

Even if you do not find any suspicious activity on your initial credit reports, the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) recommends that you check your credit reports periodically. Victim information sometimes is held for use or shared among a group of thieves at different times. Checking your credit reports periodically can help you spot problems and address them quickly.

If you find suspicious activity on your credit reports or have reason to believe your information is being misused, call your local law enforcement agency and file a police report. Get a copy of the report; many creditors want the information it contains to absolve you of the fraudulent debts. You also should file a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) at www.identitytheft.gov or at 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338), 600 Pennsylvania Ave, NW, Washington, DC 20580. Your complaint will be added to the FTC’s Identity Theft Data Clearinghouse, where it will be accessible to law enforcers for their investigations. Also visit the FTC’s website at www.ftc.gov/idtheft to review their free identity theft resources such as their comprehensive step-by-step guide “Identity Theft - A Recovery Plan”.

Security Freeze Information

You can request a “Security Freeze” on your credit file by sending a request in writing, by mail, to each of the three nationwide credit reporting companies. By placing a security freeze, someone who fraudulently acquires your personal identifying information will not be able to use that information to open new accounts or borrow money in your name. When a Security Freeze is added to your credit report, all third parties, such as credit lenders or other companies, whose use is not exempt under law will not be able to access your credit report without your consent. The Security Freeze may delay, interfere with or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make that involves access to your credit report. This may include, but is not limited to, new loans, credit, mortgages, insurance, rental housing, employment, investments, licenses, cellular phone service, utility service, digital signature service, Internet credit card transactions and extension of credit at point of sale. There may be a fee for placing, temporarily lifting, or removing a Security Freeze with each of the nationwide consumer reporting companies, although that fee is waived if you send the credit reporting company proof of eligibility by mailing a copy of a valid identity theft report, or other valid report from a law enforcement agency to show you are a victim of identity theft and are eligible for free Security Freeze services.
