Notice of Data Breach

Dear <<first_name>> <<middle_name>> <<last_name>> <<suffix>>,

We are writing to tell you about a data security incident that may have exposed some of your personal information. Upstate HomeCare takes the protection and proper use of your information very seriously. For this reason, we are contacting you directly to explain the circumstances of this incident.

What happened?

Earlier this year Upstate’s computer network was attacked by an unauthorized third-party that deployed ransomware within our network. After extensive investigation led by cybersecurity experts, we learned on November 4, 2021 that the group that attacked us had stolen some of our documents and posted them to its site on the dark web.

What information was involved?

Some of the information involved and released may have included; full names, date of births, addresses, telephone numbers, email addresses, driver’s license numbers, banking information, social security numbers, treatment information, physician names, patient ID’s, and/or Medicare/Medicaid numbers. The information released about you fell into at least one these categories.

What we are doing.

While our investigation and remedial actions are ongoing, we immediately reviewed our internal security systems and took steps to ensure that the procedures already in place were strengthened to further safeguard against future incidents. We also deployed more robust system monitoring software and other resources to better secure and monitor our network.

Fraud Alerts. There are two types of fraud alerts you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud—an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for at least one year. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft and you have the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years. You can place a fraud alert on your credit report by contacting any of the three national credit reporting agencies.

Security Freeze. You have the ability to place a security freeze, also known as a credit freeze, on your credit report free of charge.

A security freeze is intended to prevent credit, loans and services from being approved in your name without your consent. To place a security freeze on your credit report, you may use an online process, an automated telephone line, or submit a written request to any of the three credit reporting agencies listed above. The following information must be included when requesting a security freeze (note that, if you are requesting a credit report for your spouse, this information must be provided for him/her as well): (1) full name, with middle initial and any suffixes; (2) Social Security number; (3) date of birth; (4) current address and any previous addresses for the past 5 years; and (5) any applicable incident report or complaint with a law enforcement agency or the Registry of Motor Vehicles. The request must also include a copy of a government-issued identification card and a copy of a recent utility bill or bank or insurance statement. It is essential that each copy be legible, and display your name, current mailing address, and the date of issue.

If you believe you are the victim of identity theft or have reason to believe your personal information has been misused, you should immediately contact the Federal Trade Commission and/or the Attorney General's office in your home state.
