I do not feel this would be good for residents in the state of Maine but especially in rural areas where we must travel long distances, sometimes for necessities such as cancer treatments that are 60+ miles away. I travel 120 miles a day R/T to work and there are many others. We are not a State like California. We do not need to have the same California emissions law as they do. The cost impact that it would have on those on a fixed income & the low income.

Thank you for listening,
Michelle McLaughlin
