What in the actual F ark is wrong with you people for entertaining this lunacy? We are not california, we are mostly rural, and of moderate means. do you know what batteries do in sub zero temperature? what happens if people need to evacuate? what if the power goes out? This should go before legislature, not unrepresentative rule making. I thought you progressives were all about fairness and democracy? look beyond the scope of augusta and portland. If electric cars are so much better and save people as much money as they claim, their market share would be more than 6% They are not ready for a hard switch like this.
